THE 2024 SEASON

The 2024 Golf Season – Let's Get Golf Ready

The start of the 2024 PGA Tour season is well underway amid the ever-present LIV/PGA Tour agreement that is still being negotiated. Let's all hope this gets settled soon so we can unite the game and its players once again. At the start of each year, we all focus on a new set of goals for our golf game. For some, it can mean new equipment, new instruction, joining a new golf course and finding ways to maintain and improve. Indoor golf facilities are everywhere now. It is quite easy to work on our game in any weather, day or night, and enjoy time with friends competing on some of the great new simulator systems. What could be better than playing golf while watching golf or major sporting events with friends at these great indoor golf venues?

It's golf show season and the Northeast Golf Show kicks off its third year on St. Patrick's Day weekend, March 15th through the 17th, in Foxboro at Patriot Place in the Field House. It is expected to be the largest show ever. This year's show is sponsored by the U.S. Senior Open at Newport Country Club, held in June of this year in Newport, Rhode Island. The Northeast Golf Show will feature the best deals of the season in equipment, travel, fashion, memberships, tournaments and more. Get your VIP ticket early, they will sell out.

early. Golf travel gives us a break from winter in the Northeast which can put a damper on our game. There is nothing better than chasing the winter golf blues away. While buddies' trips are the norm, couples and singles have no problem getting tee times at almost all golf resort facilities, and it's a great way to meet new players. For the ladies, Women's Golf Day, one of the game's fastest-growing movements to grow the game globally, has just launched a new social connect platform to meet and play with golfers globally. FROM THE ICONIC Beaux Arts-style clubhouse designed by Whitney Warren, to being one of the five founding clubs of the United States Golf Association and hosting the inaugural U.S. Amateur and U.S. Open in 1895, Newport (R.I.) Country Club oozes with history.

The next chapter in the club's 129 years of existence comes in June when the 44th U.S. Senior Open Championship is conducted on the links-style venue designed by legendary architect A.W. Tillinghast and later restored by Ron Forse. Originally planned for 2020, the event was rescheduled due to COVID-19 postponing all but four of the USGA's championships in the calendar year.

This won't be the first time the 50-and-over set will test their game at Newport. From 1982-1985, Golf Digest sponsored a Senior Tour (now PGA Tour Champions) event (Merrill Lynch/Golf Digest Commemorative Pro-Am) that attracted all the stars from that era. The winners included U.S. Senior Open champions Billy Casper, Miller Barber and Roberto De Vincenzo, along with Lee Elder.

"This is going to be fun," said longtime Newport C.C. president Barclay Douglas Jr. of the upcoming U.S. Senior Open, the fifth USGA championship to be held at the club. "Somebody ran into [two-time U.S. Open champion] Lee Janzen at Notre Dame (2019

U.S. Senior Open) and he said, 'Oh, it's great going back to that [club]. [Former PGA Tour winner-turned NBC golf analyst] Brad Faxon is a member. We're hoping to have [Rhode Island natives] Brett Quigley and Billy Andrade. Fran Quinn is from Massachusetts.

"I'm so happy Bernard Langer won last year [at SentryWorld]. He's a good man. He should be writing a book on how he is in such good shape [at age 66]. Everyone who is collecting Social Security would buy it."

Douglas' passion for the game began basically at birth. His grandfather, J. Gordon Douglas, was a founding member of Seminole Golf Club in Florida, and a great uncle, deLancy Koutz, was president of

U.S. Senior Open

The Latest Chapter at Newport Country Club

BY DAVID SHEFTER

four-time U.S. Open venue and fellow founding USGA club Shinnecock Hills, located in Southampton, N.Y., in 1920.

A year before he ascended to the presidency of Newport's board, then-vice president Barclay Douglas wrote a letter to P.J. Boatwright, the USGA's former executive director of Rules and competitions, about bringing the 1995 U.S. Amateur to Newport. The club had not hosted any USGA championships since 1895. Theodore Havemeyer, the first USGA president who helped found Newport C.C., was a key figure in bringing the inaugural U.S. Amateur and U.S. Open to Rhode Island, and the Havemeyer Trophy is annually handed out to the U.S. Amateur champion.

Havemeyer, a wealthy businessman whose family owned the American Sugar Company, first discovered golf on a trip to Pau, France, in 1889, and brought back his passion for the game to Newport. He convinced several friends, including John Jacob Astor IV, Perry Belmont and Cornelius Vanderbilt II, to purchase 140 acres of farmland in an effort to lay out a golf course. Willie Davis designed the first nine holes and later added nine more after Havemeyer unexpectedly died in 1897. Tillinghast was later hired to design what is the current routing in 1923.

But the club was conspicuously absent from the competitions calendar ever since Charles Blair Macdonald and English-born Newport C.C. professional Horace Rawlins won those events in the nascent days of competitive golf in America. Boatwright and David B. Fay, then the USGA's assistant executive director (he became executive director in 1989), were attending the 1987 U.S. Women's Amateur at Rhode Island Country Club, in Barrington, when they made a side visit to Newport. While chatting with Fay, he casually asked him what Boatwright thought of the course.

"He loves it," Fay told Douglas.

The Centennial U.S. Amateur was awarded to Newport and Tiger Woods

wound up capturing the second of three consecutive Havemeyer Trophies with a 2-up win over future U.S. Senior Amateur champion George “Buddy” Marucci Jr. It was the Southern Californian’s fifth USGA title in as many years (Woods won the U.S. Junior Amateur from 1991-93).

While Woods won’t yet be old enough to play in the 2024 Senior Open (he doesn’t turn 50 until December 2025), several players from that championship are eligible, including Woods’ ex-Stanford teammate/NBC golf analyst Notah Begay III, 1994 U.S. Amateur runner-up Trip Kuehne (lost to Woods at TPC Sawgrass), Jason Gore, Chad Campbell, Massachusetts amateur stalwart Frank Vana Jr., 2023 USA Walker Cup captain Mike McCoy, longtime pro Craig Barlow and Christian Raynor, one of two amateurs to make the cut in the 2023 U.S. Senior Open.

The success of the 1995 U.S. Amateur led Douglas and Newport C.C. to pursue the 2006 U.S. Women’s Open, which was won by another World Golf Hall of Fame inductee, Annika Sorenstam. The Swede’s third title came in an 18-hole playoff over Pat Hurst in a week plagued by crazy weather. Nearly 3 inches of rain fell in the days leading up to the championship and the first round was postponed due to heavy fog, forcing the competitors to play 36 holes on Sunday.

Teenager Michelle Wie, who had turned professional the previous fall, was in the mix, but shot a final-round 73 to finish two strokes out of the playoff. She tied for third with 1998 champion and World Golf Hall of Famer Se Ri Pak and Stacy Prammanasudh, with two-time champion/Hall of Famer Juli Inkster three strokes back. Amateur stalwarts Amanda Blumenherst and Jane Park tied for 10th. Park won the U.S. Women’s Amateur in 2004 and Blumenherst would hoist the Robert Cox Trophy two years later.

“That was the championship that couldn’t start and couldn’t end,” Douglas said at the time because of the weather issues. “Going into the week, the golf course was perfect. It was starting to speed up and then the skies opened. We had to bring in the [Newport] Fire Department to put hoses across Ocean Drive [to pump out the water]. It was a very successful week.”

Fast forward to 2017 and Douglas and the club decided the time was right to bring another USGA championship to Newport. The U.S. Senior Open would make Newport one of six clubs to have hosted the U.S. Open, U.S. Women’s Open, U.S. Senior Open and U.S. Amateur, joining Winged Foot, Pinehurst, Cherry Hills, Oakmont and Hazeltine National.

“We thought the Senior Open would be the trifecta of all the Opens,” said Douglas. “It’s nice to say this little sleepy club in Newport, R.I., that people [often] look over. The golf course is fitting for everybody who wants to play it, whether you are a 36-handicap or a plus-4.

“It starts with the terrain. Tillinghast did a great job with it. A lot of people appreciate the design. The natural winds make it challenging. And ever since the mid-[19]80s, we’ve started to lengthen the golf course.”

Forse was brought in to help with that restoration process, but the changes didn't occur overnight. The membership, Douglas said, wanted to start small and see how those updates would affect the playing characteristics of the layout. Over the last two decades, more than 500 yards has been added to get the course up to modern standards. Newport can now play in excess of 7,000 yards from the championship tees (it will measure 7,070 yards, par 70 for the U.S. Senior Open). The club also installed 5 miles of ADS (Advanced Drainage System) pipe to improve drainage.

Charles Coen, who as the assistant superintendent during the 2006 U.S. Women's Open played a major role in getting the course in acceptable playing conditions, also undertook a major green restoration project when the club decided to hire him as the superintendent in 2015. Faced with a thatch issue, Coen and his team used bristle brushes to remove the organic debris.

"He did a great job of making the greens superb," said Douglas, who is the longest-tenured president in Newport's illustrious history. "One of the things my father always told me is to put things in better conditions than you found them."

Barring any unforeseen weather issues, competitors in the 2024 U.S. Senior Open will find a course that rewards accuracy over length. Douglas said the player who succeeds at Newport will be accurate off the tee and avoid the rough. The nines have also been reversed for logistical purposes. The area around the club's ninth green (No. 18 for the championship) has more room for hospitality and grandstands. A large area near that green, which was an old practice area, can also accommodate the Merchandise Pavilion and other facilities.

The course also features back-to-back par-3 holes (Nos. 4 and 5 for the championship), a characteristic only found at a handful of layouts (Cypress Point, Quaker Ridge and Pacific Dunes are three known venues). Changing the nines also allows the players to finish with two par-4s (Nos. 15 and 18), a par 3 (No. 17) and a par 5 (No. 16) instead of four consecutive par 4s.

Perhaps it is also fitting that the 2024 U.S. Senior Open at Newport will be the 1,001st championship in USGA history. The first 1,000 began at this summer hideaway for wealthy businessmen and now the next 1,000 kicks off there.

"I get goosebumps just thinking about it," said Quigley, who tied for fourth in last year's Senior Open and has won multiple PGA Tour Champions events. "The clubhouse, the property, I know the history behind it. And the golf course, it's just a beautiful walk."

GOLF TRAVEL PLANNER

THE 2024 GOLF TRAVEL SEASON is upon us and it's planning time for golf trips to warmer destinations and longer daylight. Most overlook the fact that sunset in South Florida is 90 minutes later than in the Northeast in January because of the Earth's axis tilt, giving us not only warmer temperatures but also extended playing time on the course and the opportunity to squeeze in a morning and afternoon round of golf. What makes golf travel so amazing is the stark transition of flying out of freezing temperatures and snow in the Northeast, and in 3-4 hours you're teeing it up on a perfectly conditioned golf course in a warm sunny environment. It honestly does not get better than this!

2024 is starting out just the opposite of the global warming predictions as cold and severe weather has encapsulated most of the country from the north south to Georgia and out west in California, Texas, and Arizona. Even northern Florida is seeing temps in the 30s and 40s with some frost delays this winter. Just the same most of Florida, southern Georgia, and Mexico will pretty much guarantee great playing conditions and weather from winter through to spring. There are hundreds of great choices with both resorts and regions to choose from with a vast amount of course designs and layouts for all golfers.

FLORIDA THE GOLF STATE

Golf-rich Florida is packed with great courses from Amelia Island and Jacksonville down to Miami then over to Orlando, the West Coast and the Florida Panhandle. The great thing about Florida is there are very different and diverse regions that offer unique design elements. Florida has some of the most famous designers and best-known resorts because of its year-round playability. There are ocean courses, parkland courses, links layouts, hillside designs, and even courses built on old quarry and mining sites. In greater Orlando, there are 250 golf courses to choose from and the selection is full spectrum with great accessibility. Mixing golf vacation with Disney fun is very popular for so many, and Orlando International Airport is at the center of it all with great fares from just about everywhere. For nightlife and entertainment, there is no better destination in the Southeast that offers so much golf, and so much more!

NORTHEAST FLORIDA

Known as Florida's First Coast, northeast Florida is home to some of the world's finest golf courses. Take your pick from over 100 miles of coastal golf courses in scenic destinations such as Amelia Island, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Ponte Vedra & the beaches, Clay County, Palm Coast and the Flagler beaches. The iconic Pete Dye, TPC Sawgrass, home of the Players Championship, tops the list in this region. Amelia Island offers spectacular choices with The River Club, Oak Marsh, Amelia National and a host of others. Just south, Hammock Beach Resort offers two championship venues, The Ocean Course and The Conservatory Course. The Ponte Vedra Inn & Golf Club offers luxury oceanfront accommodations with amazing golf at the Ocean Course and their new Lagoon Course. At World Golf Village there are The Slammer & Squire and The King & Bear Courses. In all, there are over 80 golf courses to choose from in northeast Florida with a vast array of accommodations to choose from. south to Daytona Beach, which is home to the LPGA International, the home course of the LPGA Tour. The facility has two world-class championship courses by Reese Jones and Arthur Hills and one of the very best practice facilities anywhere in the Southeast.

CENTRAL FLORIDA

The epicenter of Florida Golf is no doubt central Florida as over 300 golf courses are in the region. With over 40 golf resorts the area offers something for everyone looking for a golf vacation. The Evermore Resort (formerly Grand Cypress Resort) has recently opened on 1000 acres in Orlando. This new luxury resort brings beaches to Orlando with a 20-acre beach oasis that even features the largest man-made lake in Florida which is over 8 acres. The sand for the beach project was all trucked in from Pensacola Beach, which has the most pristine white sand in Florida. Two of Orlando's best courses are here, Jack Nicklaus's famed Links Course with replica holes of St Andrews and the new Cypress Course. Some of Florida's finest golf resorts are in greater Orlando, The Ritz Carlton, the Four Seasons, Champions Gate, Reunion Resort, Shingle Creek, Waldorf Astoria, Arnold Palmer Bay Hill, JW Marriott Grand Lakes, Marriott Grand Lakes, and Lakeshore Reserve. Just a short drive from Orlando, Streamsong Resort has set a new standard with 5 amazing course designs by the teams of Coore/Crenshaw, Doak, and Hanse/Wagner. Streamsong is on every list to play. There is no doubt that this region has more golfers visiting each year than any region in the state.

THE SOUTHEAST COAST

Southeast Florida is one the oldest sections of the state for golf resorts and courses. It was one of Florida's first established resort regions where people escaped cold winters up North to enjoy warm sunny weather. From Palm Beach County south through Broward County and Miami Dade County, you will find some of the best golf in the state. From Jupiter to Palm Beach and West Palm Beach, south to Boca Raton, Ft. Lauderdale and Miami there are some of the most exclusive resorts and private residence clubs in America. We can start a bit north at PGA Golf Club in Port St Lucie. Championship golf courses include the Wanamaker Course, Ryder Course, and Dye Course. Each course was laid out by design legends Tom Fazio and Pete Dye. In addition, PGA Golf Club is home to the PGA 6-hole Family Short Course. In Palm Beach, PGA National has 99 holes of championship golf on 6 courses, including The Champions Course home of the PGA Tour Cognizant Classic. The Breakers is exquisite with two great courses, The Ocean Course by Reese Jones, renovated in 2018, and the newly renovated Reese Jones Course. Hyatt Banyan Cay with a Nicklaus-designed course is a great resort, the Abacoa Club just 20 minutes away is a great course to play on a visit to Palm Beach. Just south,

Myrtle Beach

BY ALICE & DANNY SCOTT

The Destination

Myrtle Beach is nicknamed the Grand Strand for its sixty miles of beautiful sandy shoreline along the northeast coast of South Carolina. It is a magnet for family and friend trips with more than 80 golf courses and entertainment options galore. The climate is mainly mild year-round with summer temps averaging 83-91 and winter temps 57-61.

Accommodations are abundant with home rentals and oceanfront hotels. Action lovers might prefer staying on the south side while the north side is less touristy and more peaceful.

The Venue

Myrtle Beach World Amateur Handicap Championship, touted as “Your Major”, has attracted nonprofessional golfers from all walks of life, for 40 years. Thousands of players annually, are slotted in flights based on gender, age, and verified handicap for fair play to compete for many prizes. Myrtle Beach Convention Center is host to the World’s Largest 19th Hole in the evenings. It is the state fair of golf with product and destination exhibitors, games, live bands, drinks, and food stations with sample plates of themed menus from 20 local restaurants, all included. Dirty Don’s Oyster Bar & Grill, Angelo’s Steakhouse, Mike’s Soul Food, and all the rest could be capped off every night with Friendly’s Ice Cream.

The Golf

How many trips would it take to play all 80 plus courses? Some notables:

Caledonia Fish and Golf Club, with its enchanting wood lined entrance, is a coveted course among the World Am flights. Floral gardens are designated as no play zones with free drops. Bunkers are absent but as the starter says, “there is plenty of kitty litter where you may take a practice swing.” One of the most entertaining holes for golfers and the clubhouse gallery is the picturesque 18th with water along the right and in front of the hole.

Burning Ridge Golf Club, South Carolina’s Course of the Year in ’06 is still in fantastic shape. Designed by Gene Hamm, it is part of Founders Group International with another 17 of the most requested courses in Myrtle Beach, including TPC and Pawley’s Plantation.

Prestwick Country Club, a Pete and P.B. Dye masterpiece is arguably, one of the toughest tests of golf on the Grand Strand. Diabolical Dye challenges are significant on the finishing holes. A comparatively friendlier design by Rees Jones is at Arcadian Shore Golf Club with wide fairways and greens.

Wachesaw East Golf Club in Murrells Inlet is a former LPGA event site, designed in Clyde Johnson’s Scottish link style. Also near Murrells Inlet is the epitome of lowlands golf with towering oaks draped in Spanish moss at Heritage Golf Club.

Tidewater Golf Club is a natural beauty amidst the Carolina Pines, skirting the intracoastal waterway and marshes including Cherry Grove Ocean Inlet where boaters float by. The Long Bay Club, a Jack Nicklaus Signature Course, is long on water as well, with an island green on 13 and on number 15, a creek splitting the fairway, runs all the way to the green. Water provides a Zen like backdrop for the practice green at Lockwood Folly Country Club.

Barefoot Resort and Golf Club has a foursome of courses designed by Greg Norman, Davis Love III, Tom Fazio, and Pete Dye with rocking chairs on the veranda for relaxation between rounds. And the granddaddy of all is Pine Lakes Country Club on Granddaddy Drive. It stands the test of time as the first Myrtle Beach course.

And More

Life is a beach here, so all ocean activities are in play with plenty of beach stores to pick up chairs, umbrellas, body boards, whatever you need. Frolic in the waves and relax in the sand, watching the pelicans, dolphins, and kite surfers. Or go boating, fishing, or parasailing.

Broadway at the Beach is not on the ocean, but has a waterway with speedy boat rides, restaurants, bars, shops, and Wonderworks. On the tamer side is a floral and sculpture tour at Brookgreen Gardens or good old fashion performances at Alabama Theater and Carolina Opry.

Our Takeaway

Myrtle Beach has more golf courses than most destinations and no two days on the beach are ever the same. While it is ideal year-round for vacationing, the World Am the end of August is an unforgettable experience. At the World's Largest 19th Hole, farewells echo across the Convention Center, "See you next year!"

The Journey

Drive time for road trippers from Boston is fourteen hours while most airlines fly into the efficient Myrtle Beach International Airport with accessible rental or Turo cars. Major highways and connector streets make navigation easy to all the courses.

To say that Los Cabos has arrived on the international golf scene is very much understated, Los Cabos has become a global destination for luxury golf vacations. It is very rare for a golf tourism destination to climb to the ranks as one of the very best in the world, Los Cabos is the exception. Los Cabos has been the top golf travel destination for some time now in Latin America, over the last 10 years this world-class luxury golf destination has taken a world stage in international golf travel. This provides us with an unparalleled opportunity to shine on the international stage, attracting a growing number of golf enthusiasts and travelers,” said Rodrigo Esponda, Director of the Los Cabos Tourism Board.

The destination has become one of the most popular luxury golf destinations in North America and throughout the world. Pickleball Phenomenon Fosters Sports and Social Interaction

It has captured the interest of people young and old and is sweeping the country with a growing wave of popularity. No, it is not the Taylor Swift-Travis Kelce romance.

I am talking about pickleball, a sport that is permeating all demographics and sports enthusiasts. Heck, it even has its own professional tours and leagues. In the northeast, there are several indoor pickleball facilities increasing their space and customer base.

Pickleball is a paddle sport akin to tennis, badminton, and ping-pong. It employs a paddle and plastic ball with holes much like a whiffle ball. The game can be played by all ages and skill levels and the rules are relatively easy to learn. As with any sport, there are differing levels of play and skill in competitors.

Southcoast Pickleball in Fairhaven, MA offers all things pickleball including open play where large groups of people come together and share a preset number of courts. They also offer private court rentals, clinics and instruction, as well as competitive games and tournaments.

Owner/operator Adam Rogers talks about the rise in popularity of the sport. “First, the game is easy to learn, so it is easily accessible to people interested in starting.

PICKLEBALL

“Second and perhaps the biggest factor, it’s a social sport that people of all ages can enjoy together. We often see families come in, and parents in their 50s and 60s can still compete with their children in their 20s and 30s. There aren’t many sports where you can do that.”

Similarly, Lil’ Rhody Pickleball in North Kingstown, RI has become a destination point for pickleball players. It offers five full-size indoor courts soon to be adding two additional outdoor courts.

Their Bootcamp Pickleball program gets beginners up to speed on the sport. Lil’ Rhody also provides lessons and clinics as well as opportunities for players to drop into an open session and play with other players separated into different skill levels. They also have a full pro shop, leagues, and tournaments.

“Pickleball gives you an excellent and enjoyable workout without struggling on a treadmill,” says Richard Storti who owns Lil’ Rhody with partner Kevin O’Brien. “The whole time, you are laughing and enjoying it.”

“The game is very social. You get to interact with a lot of different people, and physically, you feel great after you play. The game provides us all with a better feeling of wellness, and you can improve quickly.

“You just have to be in position, practice, and have some of the basic shots to become proficient. It’s not terribly taxing on your upper body and you don’t need a lot of muscle to do it. It’s just more about finesse and footwork.”

In Rye, NH, the New England Pickleball Club (NEPC) is a seacoast pickleball paradise. It provides an array of services for both members and non-members including skill-based social play, competitive ladders, elite coaching in the form of clinics, classes, private lessons, video coaching, and private court bookings.

NEPC has six dedicated fenced in courts, climate-controlled environments, and amenities like showers and lockers. It is open to players of all skill levels.

Owner and head pro David Velardo talks about his entrance into the game and the demographics of the sport. “I discovered pickleball during my ten-year stint in California where my passion for the game quickly evolved from a casual interest to a full-fledged pursuit of excellence. My dedication to mastering the sport propelled me to achieve the rank of #27 in the world in the 2020 rankings.

“Our customer base spans a wide range of demographics, welcoming players of all ages and backgrounds united by their passion for pickleball. We cater to every level of play, from true beginners to top amateur and professional players.

“This diversity creates a vibrant community where lower and mid-level players have ample opportunity to interact with, learn from, and aspire to the higher levels of play. Pickleball just works extremely well as both a social activity and competitive sport for all ages and ability levels. Those are the two areas that we focus a lot on at NEPC.”

There seems to be a common philosophy of physical fitness and social interaction among these pickleball havens. In Hanover, MA, Pickles Indoor Pickleball Club offers a state-of-the-art, climate-controlled indoor complex dedicated to ensuring an optimal playing environment all year round.

With six tournament-sized courts and two practice courts, the facility caters to all levels of play, from beginners to seasoned competitors. Pickles provides Performance Coaching programs, competitive play in leagues and tournaments, and skill advancement with clinics for all skill levels. Their DUPR (Dynamic Universal Pickleball Rating) has allowed the player community to track progress and set new targets.

“Pickles is more than just a pickleball facility. It’s a community-centric hub where the essence of the sport’s inclusivity and joy is palpable,” says Dustin DeMeritt who owns Pickles with wife Lisa. “Our commitment is to provide a comprehensive pickleball experience.

“Our Player’s Lounge and The Kitchen offer a place for our members to relax and socialize, capturing the essence of community that is central to Pickles’ ethos. It’s a place to unwind, share stories, and enjoy refreshments after a great game. We’ve aimed to create not just a place to play, but a place to belong.”

While all of these pickleball facilities are thriving amid the sport’s increased popularity, they are not standing pat. Southcoast Pickleball plans to add additional courts and kitchen offerings while forming partnerships with area school systems. Rogers is also hosting the 2nd annual Southcoast Championships March 9 & 10 with top players from across

New England competing.

Lil' Rhody aims to identify other locations to expand its brand, while New England Pickleball will be opening a second location in Middleton, MA later this year.

Pickles plans on integrating physical therapy and rehabilitation services. The facility is also starting 4-Player Team Leagues using the MLPlay format incorporating men's doubles, women's doubles, and mixed doubles into a cohesive league format.

DeMeritt puts the pickleball mentality into full focus stating, "In the larger picture, we see pickleball's popularity continuing to surge, with more people of all ages discovering the sport each day. As it grows, we anticipate further innovations in gameplay, equipment, and facilities.

"Pickleball fosters a community that values health, wellness, and the pure enjoyment of the sport. We are continually inspired by the stories of connection and transformation that unfold here every day. We believe pickleball is more than a sport. It's a way of life."
